'FARM BLOC' SEES DEFEAT ON AMENDMENT

Sen. Smith Declares Congress 'Not Worth Damn' After Failure to Alter Bill.

READY FOR VOTE NOW

Administration Leaders Seek Anti-Inflation Passage By Tonight.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Cotton Ed" Smith (D) S. C., chairman of the senate agriculture committee, today conceded defeat of the "farm bloc" in its battle for the Thomas amendment to the anti-inflation bill.

"Everything is gone," he declared. "We might as well turn everything over to the president. Congress isn't worth a damn."

While some "farm bloc" members sought further modification of the Barkley compromise amendment, which directs the president to take into account increased farm labor costs in fixing ceiling prices of agricultural products, Smith scoffed at these efforts.

He declared that the Thomas amendment, which would require inclusion of all labor costs in arriving at parity prices, offered the only sure and safe guarantee that the farmers would get a "square deal" during the war.

"The administration has the vote," he said. "They have put on all kinds of pressure. The only compliment they paid me was to leave me alone."

While some "farm bloc" members indicated that debate would continue for a day or two, Smith saw no virtue in delay.

"We might as well vote now," he said.

Leaders of the "Big Four" farm organizations earlier had conceded defeat on the Thomas amendment issue.

Confident that they hold the whip hand, administration leaders planned to seek passage of the anti-inflation bill by night, so that it can be rushed through conference before the "you-do-it-or-I-will" Oct. 1 deadline set by President Roosevelt.

"It looks as if the substitute for the Thomas amendment will be adopted," said Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange,

With Gas Rationing Ahead, Take Tip From Easterner Who's Been Through the Mill and Knows the Ropes

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This chatty, informal and highly informative story on gas rationing—about to be instituted across the nation—comes from a New York reporter who has had a bit of experience with the rationing problem in the east. It may help to remember what he says, when gas rationing gets here.)

By ROBERT C. M'CORMICK
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Dear Mr. and Mrs. America West:

So you're going to have gasoline rationing? They're going to hand you a little book and a sticker to put on your windshield and you'll be all set to drive 2,880 miles, or less, during the next twelve months. Or so you hope.

Well, let me tell you how it actually works out. Let me tell you about saving up your gasoline for a month to take that trip home for Christmas, about getting up at 6 a. m. and driving over to the gasoline station and sitting there for two hours in line before you can get your tank filled. And about the car pools you'll have to make up with other automobile owners. We've done these things and we know.

You know the basis of the gasoline rationing system, I guess. You know how every driver is entitled to an A card, how if you can prove you must drive a few extra miles a week, you can get a B card. And how the C cards are reserved for motorists in vital war occupations—doctors, nurses, etc.

We can forget the last two, as well as the S cards they give to trucks. Let's concentrate on the A cards, the ones you and Mrs. America West will be holding and trying to stretch into a full year's driving.

Well, when you get your card, you may not be able to get any gasoline at all for awhile. At least, that's the way it worked out here in the east. And there's no reason to suppose there are any fewer chiselers who buy up all the

Reinforce Army Battering at Key to Volga

Russians Continue To Fight From Tops Of Houses As Stalingrad Becomes Pivot In Allied Strategy; Leningrad Battle Grows.

(By Associated Press)

Stalingrad still stands.

After five weeks of battering siege, the Germans were reported today forced to bring up shock troops by air transport in a mighty effort to overrun Stalingrad before a Russian counter-offensive sawing at their northern flank turns the city into another Leningrad.

The Germans said several more districts of Stalingrad had fallen, and that Russian diversionary attacks both south and north of the city had failed.

Stalingrad, battling with her back to the Volga, still dominated the war news.

Still fighting from rooftops, windows, street corners and barricades of tumbled rubble, the Russians reported they were holding their own A Pravda correspondent pictured Stalingrad thus: "The whole city is in convulsion from the incessant explosions of bombs and shells."

The defense of the city, becoming more than ever a pivot of Allied strategy, offered heroic parallels to the defense of Leningrad where for more than a year German siege forces have been held off, and actually rolled back from time to time in various places, by a norther.. Red army.

The parallel, of course, is not complete. The snow and cold of 1941-42 helped save Leningrad; the temperate weather of Stalingrad's latitude will not be such an ally. But as against the Germans' shorter supply lines to the Leningrad positions, the route to Stalingrad on the Volga extends more than 600 miles deeper into Russia and is exposed to Russian attacks.

Russian dispatches estimated that 36,000 Germans were battling from positions inside Stalingrad and were being steadily reinforced.

The persistent peril to Leningrad was emphasized anew today by word that fighting there had gained in ferocity and that the German commanders had promised their troops—which include Polish and Spanish recruits—that the long siege would soon be victoriously ended. Leningrad's defenders, however, seemed still to hold the initiative, having freshly taken a hill from the toe.

NEW EQUIPMENT BROUGHT IN TO HURRY PAVING

Concrete Work Expected To Be Started Tomorrow on 30-N Grade Separation Job.

As the result of agitation for a speed-up in work on the Route 30-N grade separation project, additional concrete laying equipment was brought to the job today, and it was expected that laying of concrete might be started by tomorrow.

Meanwhile, county commissioners indicated they would confer with Vance Grimes, division engineer for the state highway department, on the progress of the work, on which Lombardo Brothers, Cleveland, general contractors for the job, had asked a 90-day extension.

The additional equipment was put on the job by Howard Herring, Cleveland contractor, and former Mansfielder. This move came at the instigation of Grimes, it was learned, in an effort to rush work to completion by the specified completion deadline, Nov. 30.

If the 90-day extension were granted—it is still in the hands of Grimes—motorists would be forced to use a detour after gasoline rationing goes into effect, about Nov. 22, and thus consume fuel unnecessarily.

Commenting on the need for rushing the job through to completion without delay, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the county commissioners, said:

"I think we will ask the state highway division engineer, (Grimes) how the situation stands now," admitting he

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—A spreading strike of United Auto Workers (CIO) today paralyzed production at the Cowles Tool Co., which is working on essential war materials.

Think It Wasn't Cold? Mercury Hit 29-Mark In Night

A shivery 29 degrees this morning gave Mansfield one of the coldest September mornings on record. There was heavy frost, finishing off the vegetation that had not already been killed last week.

The early fall cold wave hit the city Sunday after an all-night rain Saturday which brought 1.62 inches of precipitation. The peak reading Sunday was 63 degrees, but by late afternoon the mercury had started to skid when the wind switched to the northeast.

Continued cold with light frost was predicted for this area tonight. The frost may be heavy if the skies clear and the wind diminishes.

Bucyrus reported a reading of 28 degrees today, marking the third time in 100 years that the mercury has dropped that low in September.

MARINES FIGHT OFF 3 THRUSTS

Outnumbered Americans Drive Enemy Into Retreat In Solomon Battle.

(By United Press)

UNITED STATES MARINE HEADQUARTERS, SOLOMON ISLANDS, Sept. 16.—(Delayed)—The United States marines, often outnumbered 10 to 1, have beaten off the biggest Japanese attack since they invaded the Solomons nearly six weeks ago.

For two days the Japanese attacked with everything they had, by land, sea and air.

They have lost many hundreds of dead and at least 39 planes. Their picked assault troops who were supposed to have won back the air field which is the key marine position are back in the jungle, and the marine position remains secure.

The enemy tried every trick in his bag. Japanese troops attacked frontally, yelling "ban-

LaGuardia Urges Victims To Sue For Recovery of Losses.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Gambling victims who have lost sizeable amounts to bookmakers and other tinhorn gamblers today were gleeful at the prospect of recovering their cash following Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's public invitation to them to institute suit.

The mayor, delighted at the results of nine police raids, one smacking of commando tactics, which netted 75 "tinhorns" not only promised to provide gambling victims with legal counsel if they were unable to do so themselves, but declared he would seek action by the state legislature which would amend existing law in order that losses, without limitation, might be recovered "even to the extent of a dime on a number or policy ticket."

Here's A Modern Version Of The 'Good Samaritan

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Jaded by tales of tire hoarding and stealing? Then this parable of the Good Samaritan, modern version, is for you.

It comes from W. O. C. Ward, who met the Good Samaritan the other midnight while stranded on a highway miles from his suburban Rocky River home.

The left front tire on Ward's automobile had blown out, he had no spare and, not knowing what else to do, he glumly jacked up the car before thinking out the next move.

That's when the Good Samaritan came along, in another auto-

DEBT'S DOUBLE

Treasury Owes 90 Billions as War Boosts Deficit.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government debt today reached $90,000,000,000—more than double what it was before the United States began preparing in 1940 for the present war.

The treasury's debt entries on Sept. 25 were $89,996,735,594, and officials said that war bond sales since then put the total over $90,000,000,000.

At present the debt is going up at the rate of $4,000,000,000 per month. Since the fiscal year began July 1 treasury borrowings have totaled $13,000,000,000. In this period, the treasury spent $15,535,156,132, including $13,886,352,306 for direct war purposes.

Tax receipts were $3,725,167,767, leaving a deficit of $11,629,988,365.

BUCYRUS FIRE PUTS SELF OUT

Blaze at Supper Club Melts Water Pipe After Causing $200 Damage.

BUCYRUS—An accommodating fire in the Palm Supper club melted a water pipe and put itself out early Sunday after causing damage estimated at $200.

The custodian of the building discovered the damage when he went to the basement about 6 a. m. Sunday to put fuel in the furnace.

The blaze started on the second floor of the building and burned a hole in a partition and blackened a stand before the heat melted a water pipe over the blaze, releasing water which spread quickly over the room and put the fire out.

Water also ran into the rooms below and flooded the basement, causing property damage. Origin of the blaze is unknown.

(By Associated Press)

The announced sinkings of Allied merchant ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor stood today at 477, according to an Associated Press count, after a week in which only five merchantmen were reported sunk—lowest number over a seven-day period since America declared war.

Sixteen seamen perished in the western Atlantic submarine encounters reported last week; 183 others were rescued.

25 Burn To Death In France's Worst Aviation Accident.

VICHY—(UP)—Twenty-five persons were burned to death when a heavily loaded Air France plane caught fire in a forced landing 10 minutes after taking off from the Algiers airport yesterday on its regular flight to Casa Blanca.

The flames spread so swiftly that none of the passengers or crew was able to escape. The accident was described as the worst in French aviation history. All the casualties were French and North Africans.

REPORT ATTACK

Germans Say Attempt Made To Assassinate Smuts.

BERLIN — (German Broadcast Recorded By UP at New York)— German dispatches said today that an attempt had been made to assassinate Field-Marshal Jan Smuts, South African premier.

A pistol was fired at Smuts, the German reports said, and many Boers, Negroes, and others were arrested.

GETTING SET TO ENFORCE OCT. 1 SPEED DECISION

City, County, and State Patrol Officers To Join In Enforcement Move.

City and county authorities and state highway patrolmen were preparing today to help enforce the 35-miles-an-hour speed limit for motorists which will go into effect throughout the nation next Thursday.

A request for enforcement of the new speed limit was expected today or tomorrow from Gov. John W. Bricker who was asked along with the governors of the other states to arrange for strict enforcement of the law to save tires.

The reduced speed limit is a forerunner of nation-wide gasoline rationing which has been set for Nov. 22, Joseph B. Eastman, head of the Office of Defense Transportation announced.

The speed limit in Mansfield has been 35 miles an hour, but Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boales said today that he would ask officers to increase their efforts to run down speeders.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson's staff of officers will help with the enforcement as soon as word is received from Columbus, it was said.

State patrolmen said they had received no instructions regarding enforcement of the 35-miles-an-hour limit and would issue no statement until they are informed of the change. Patrolmen, however, have been arresting scores of motorists in recent weeks for driving more than 40 miles an hour, the limit set recently by the governor.

Meanwhile, federal transportation officials today urged motorists to restrict their driving to about 60 per cent of normal

'LOAD MOTORS'

Westinghouse Urges Full Use To Aid War Production.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today urged that electric motors be "loaded to the limit" to get more production out of them and save as much as 40 per cent of the copper, steel and aluminum used in their manufacture.

The company explained that in peacetime, larger motors than actually required are ordered for most industrial uses to take care of unexpectedly heavy loads and assure long life with low maintenance cost.

As an example of savings, 63 pounds of materials can be saved by using a motor rated at five horsepower for a 6½ horsepower load. Ordinarily a 7½ horsepower motor would be applied to such a job.

CLAIM: Nazis Report Sinking Of 3 Ships In Allied Convoy

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—The Germans have increased their submarine activity in the Atlantic, particularly in the convoy lanes, it was understood today.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—The high command said today that German submarines had sunk three transport vessels and a destroyer in an attack in the north Atlantic on a troop and supply convoy en route from the United States to England.

(There was no confirmation of the attack from other sources. German claims of large scale victories over Allied convoys in the past have proved repeatedly to be greatly exaggerated.)

"In the North Atlantic," a special communique said, "German submarines destroyed the greater part of an American troop transport destined for England.

"They attacked a fast enemy convoy consisting of only a few large passenger steamers and which was strongly protected and carrying troops, munitions and war material.

"In the course of difficult attacks and heavy pursuit fighting lasting several days, they sank one two-funnelled steamer of the 19,000-ton Viceroy of India type, which capsized after three torpedo hits; one two-funnelled steamer of the 17,000-ton Reina Del Pacifico type which blew up following two torpedo hits; one transport of the 11,000-ton Derbyshire type, and one destroyer of the escort.

"Two other transport ships were damaged by torpedo hits.

"With these successes, our submarines have dealt a heavy blow at the enemey. The enemy transport fleet has lost three particularly valuable, fast units totaling 47,000 tons such as are employed mainly for specially important and urgent transport of troops.

"In other regions of the Atlantic from the African to the American coast, submarines sank 11 more ships totaling 57,000 tons, so that the total losses of enemy shipping in the last four days amount to 14 ships totaling 104,000 tons."

STINGERS: U. S. Planes Jab At Foe Bases In Raids Over China

(By Associated Press)

The deadly sting and pulverizing smash of United States fighting and bombing planes characterized the war with Japan over the week-end both in China and on Australia's island front.

Bombers and fighters of the Stilwell command in China blasted Japanese bases and lines of communication west of the Salween river in southwestern Yunnan province without loss of a single plane.

Direct hits were scored on buildings at Mengshih and Tengyuch and five separate groups of Japanese barracks were combed by the guns of the Americans on a Sunday sweep of the Burma road.

This burst of activity came on the third day of a renewal of air action in the Chinese theater after a month's lull.

On Friday the Americans raided the Japanese air base at Hanoi, French Indo-China, shooting down three of Japan's new twin-engined two-man fighters, I-45's. On Saturday they shot up 10 trucks, a staff car and three tanks on the road between Lungling and Chefang, in Yunnan province.

In the Australian air offensive yesterday, Flying Fortresses bombed the Buna-Gona area on the New Guinea coast, opposite Port Moresby, and damaged a 15,000-ton merchant ship in a heavy attack on the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain. It was left pouring black smoke.

Attack planes meanwhile struck at the supply line between the Buna-Gona area and the jungle outposts of the enemy 32 miles short of Port Moresby.

There were lighter raids in the Solomons and three Japanese planes attempted a night attack on Port Darwin, Australia. Their bombs fell "harmlessly in a swamp and the brush," the MacArthur communique said.

Lauds 2 Sportsmens' Groups For Water Sport Activities

Pointing out that for the first time in its history Mansfield now has good water recreational facilities close to home at Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill lakes, Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch yesterday emphasized the necessity for keeping those facilities noncommercial.

Kalbfleisch spoke at the dedication ceremonies of the Charles Mill Sportsmen's Sailing club following the regatta which concluded the summer's racing program, and which attracted approximately 1,000 people to the dock site during the day.

Outlining the activities of both the Sportsmen's club and the Richland County Fish and Game association, Kalbfleisch declared that only at Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill lakes—of all 14 lakes in the Muskingum conservancy district are there recreational facilities, and that these two organizations were responsible for their development.

He listed the efforts of the organizations in reforestation, stocking of wild life, opening a portion of Charles Mill lake to duck hunters, reducing dock fees from $2 monthly to $2 a year, and construction of a public dock.

W. C. Reinoehl, chairman of the racing committee, awarded first prize in the handicap class races, a plaque and pennant, to Charles Siegenthaler, who clinched his lead by winning yesterday's race.

Siegenthaler also won pennants in the same class for the months of July, August and September.

Heyl, whose ambulance was called, worked for nearly half-hour to get Mrs. Liggett from the front seat of the car where she was pinned.

Mr. Liggett received head and leg cuts and a cracked rib.

Max Thrift, driver of the truck, told the sheriff's office that he had run out of gasoline and had parked the truck while he went to West Salem for gas. He had placed flares around the truck and in the back and after returning with the gas and filling the tank noticed that the flare in the rear had gone out.

He was in the cab of the truck getting another flare when he heard the crash.

Liggett told the sheriff's department that he was coming up the road between 35 and 40 miles an hour and did not see the truck until almost on it. He put on the brakes but skidded on the wet pavement and could not stop his car.

PASSING DREAM

CHAPTER VI

Paula sat on her wide low bed while Temple put on her jacket.

"I don't know anything about him, darling, except that his grammar is good and that he dances well and that there's a melancholy streak in him. I find that in a good many kids these days. I was going to call him a gentleman except that that word has conflicting meanings. She smiled at Temple. "Go out and have yourself some fun. I'll ring you and see how everything is going. You might like a weekend at my farm."

"It was nice of you to think of me again, Mrs. Wayne."

"Oh, forget it, and I'm not Mrs. Wayne, baby. I'm Paula. You're lovely but—my God!—I'm sorry for you. I wouldn't be in love again for a million dollars and everyone knows how I love honey."

At the door Jud said, "Thanks Paula."

"It was a success, wasn't it? Now off with you kids . . . 'Bye."

Temple could not remember the last time she had felt a touch as warmly human as Jud's when he touched her arm as she got into a taxi.

"My car is in for repairs," he said. "I walked."

On the way to the restaurant they spoke politely of the Washington weather, which is rarely ever ideal, and of the great influx of workers. Jud said he thought decentralization would soon be attempted. He also said, as he took a pipe from his pocket and lighted it, that he hoped she would not mind hot summers.

He spoke slowly, casually, thoughtfully as though he weighed his words before uttering them. Temple had already altered her first impression of him and the thought that he had never had a lonely moment in his life. For his voice there was a poignant aloneliness. Sitting beside him in the dark taxi she thought that even if she never saw him again, he would always remember his voice.

A little, later they were sitting opposite each other in a booth in the crowded restaurant. Temple intense, Jud seemingly relaxed, his pipe in his hand. They ordered spaghetti and wine.

He said, "Tell me about yourself, Temple. I don't particularly care where you came from or how many brothers and sisters you have. I mean about your thoughts and feelings in these times and . . . and the war abroad."

Tapping the tobacco in his pipe, he looked up and smiled. "If I thought I was flattering you by asking your thoughts and feelings, I'd ask how your rhumba is . . ."

"Won't you be in uniform before long?"

"Now you're asking the questions. Yes, I'll be in before long. I have no dependents and I'm 27. I'm an investment counsel without which the world can get along quite well these days. I came from up Boston way three years ago and I have a vague, widowed mother who can't understand why the government is interested in the taxes from her little estate. The last time I saw her she asked 'But, Jud, dear, why does anything so big as the government care about the securities poor Aunt Nora left me? Why do I have to tell the government about them?' Paula told me she met you on a train. You probably never spoke to a stranger on a train before in your life."

"Do I look that naive?"

He laughed. "No, you don't! You look—well, mighty good to me. I hadn't intended to say anything nice like that. But you got it out of me. Maybe you deserved it . . . Hey, we're not serious any more!"

"Then I'll be quiet. Because I am serious. I can't help it." But she was smiling and not looking serious at all.

"But aren't there times when you're happy?"

"Well, the first real spring day, the first snow and the first time you go in the ocean in the summer. A good book and good music and walking in the country and thinking . . . thinking of all the things I want to do and see."

"That's funny. Those are the things that make me happy, too. The body and soul things. You're too good to be true. May I touch?"

His hand touched hers briefly. "Here we go again. We're serious. But we're a serious generation, aren't we? It burns me up when the people who had a swell time in the mad twenties say that our generation is too serious. They've had everything we want and they're too old to want those things now . . . Are you in love with anyone now?"

"You change subjects so quickly I can't keep up with you."

"You're evading. Are you?"

She shook her head slowly. "No. I don't think I've ever been in love. I've been attracted and I've gone home and had nice thoughts about it. But the next time something had gone out of it. The heart had gone out of it."

"Dreamer. Does it have to be moonlight and roses?"

She looked at him frankly. "No Not at all. But the heart has to be in it." She thought. "Is this another attraction that will send me to my room to have nice thoughts about it? Will the heart be gone out of it the next time, if there is a next time?"

"You're a funny lassie and I'm a funny lad. That makes us funny people. We have everything doped out and we haven't anything doped out. Actually we're just two kids trying to get along and hoping we won't make any bad mistakes. Fifty years ago we'd never have met at all. My father would still have a business and I'd be the boss' son. And you'd be in the kitchen learning how to make good pie for your husband, and Washington would be only a place where the White House is . . . I'm not in love with anyone either and if I can help it, I don't intend to be again." He smiled. "But if you insist on looking at me like that too often, I won't be able to help it."

"Now we're not serious again."

"You saved me. Thanks. I wonder where our dinner is. Waiter!"

Their dinner came promptly. Then Jud suggested a movie. Temple had hoped that he would take her dancing.

It was almost midnight when the taxi stopped before her house He walked up the steps with her and stepped inside the hall.

He looked at her again with that long, inquisitive, thoughtful look before he said, "It was nice. Good night, Temple. I hope I'll see you again."

"I hope you will, too. It was very nice."

He smiled. "It was a success."

She nodded. "Good night, Jud."

He went out quickly. She walked slowly up the steps to her room, her thoughts following him. Jud, bitter-sweet, who made questions like sparks fly brightly across her mind. Also he made her want to buy new clothes and think of clever things to say.

Sundays were leisurely days in the house with people coming and going at odd hours and the old telephone on the wall ringing with shrill impatience. Temple went for a walk with Abby and told her about Jud and Paula and the interesting faces of yesterday afternoon.

"Jud will be in the service soon," she said.

She stood three inches above Abby and yet always when she walked with her she felt smaller. What was there about Abby, plain and unfashionable and sweet, that made her feel humble?

Temple said, "My mother said that this war wouldn't touch me because I'm a girl. But it will. It will take boys who marry girls like me."

"That's our part," Abby said. "Girls who don't think they're contributing anything are contributing potential husbands. You know they say that drinking, if you drink too much, brings out the worst in you, the characteristics you try to hide when you're sober. War is like that, too—I mean when you see people you've always thought of as solid yet wide-eyed with fear at the thoughts of bombs. And there are the ones who say they are pacifists because they think it excuses them from responsibility. We're all pafifists, if pacifism means not believing in war. Most of us are patriots, but so many of us are selfish patriots . . . Let's stop and have tea, Temple. I look a wreck and you . . . you always look just right. The next time I go shopping I want you to come along and tell me what to buy. I have no knack for clothes. I suppose that comes from growing up in hand-me-downs."

The small tea room was warm and cozy. Coming in, Temple felt an unexpected spurt of happiness because she was young and alive, because she was warm after the cold, because she was having hot tea with Abby and because she believed she would see Jud again and that the heart would still be in it the second time.

The old doors had closed. New doors were opening. Let the old remain closed . . . Let the new open wide.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1942.

Poverty is not inevitable any more. The sum total of the world's greatest possible output divided by the sum total of the world's inhabitants no longer means a little less than enough for everybody. It means more than enough.—Donald M. Nelson.

Those Who Make Rationing Necessary

NOW it is gasoline that is to be rationed—not that there is a shortage of gasoline over much of the country, but there is a shortage of rubber, and millions of motorists must be regimented and inconvenienced because a small percentage of them will not voluntarily comply with requests to conserve tires by driving at not to exceed 35 miles an hour and to do no unnecessary driving.

Sugar rationing was made necessary by hoarders who bought greatly in excess of needs when it appeared that there might be a shortage. Coffee stocks were depleted when a rumor passed around that stocks were getting low—perfectly "nice people" going around from one store to another, buying a pound or more of coffee at each place and never thinking that by so doing they might be keeping others from getting ANY coffee!

And the other night a rumor was flashed around that gas rationing was to become effective immediately. So what? So there was a sudden rush to filling stations, with instructions to "fill 'er up"—in order to gain an advantage over the other fellow, who might thus be deprived of a reasonable share of gasoline.

There is also to be meat rationing soon, with meat already at such high prices that the proposed two and a half pounds per person, per week, is also near the buying limit of all except those in the higher income brackets—and it was only a few years ago that millions of little pigs were killed in order to reduce supply and hold up prices!

Congress has been fumbling for the past couple of weeks with the "problem" of preventing runaway inflation, and by last week-end was in considerable disagreement over a bill that would insure inflation, instead of guarding against it.

These are no more than a few passing thoughts associated with present conditions and their causes—with possibly an intimation of the need of further education in self government before the ideals of democracy can be more nearly attained.

Cancel Conventions Till War Ends

THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION has canceled plans for its 1943 convention, scheduled for San Francisco. More than 6,000 doctors and others would have been taken away from war tasks, to say nothing of the strain on transportation.

Conventions, it is often said, benefit the attendants through exchange of ideas and contact with worth-while persons. This is no doubt true, and in ordinary times no one would begrudge the recreation that accompanies attendance. Doctors experience these benefits as much as anyone else, yet they find it expedient to give up their convention. Some other bodies, less essential than physicians, still plan to hold theirs. They might do well to reconsider their plans.

Cancellation of such large and famous meetings as those of the American Medical association is hard on the cities affected. Much of the income of hotels and other valuable local businesses comes from conventions. Yet in these days when everyone is or ought to be sacrificing, the abandonment of large conventions may be a sacrifice worth while.

Liquor Selling To Minors

THE STATE liquor board appears to be in earnest about clamping down on violators of the law against selling intoxicating drinks to minors.

So little attention had been given to this matter since advent of night clubs into the promotion of liquor sales that some of these places, with their enticing entertainment, had become notorious juvenile hangouts—with the specially accorded privilege of 2:30 a. m. closing time.

Whatever may be the argument for "self determination" by children, it has become well defined public policy, backed by law, that intoxicating liquor shall not be sold to minors, and whatever is done by local and state authorities to discourage this practice will win approval from all except those who profit financially thereby.

Complain of Faulty Pronunciation

PEOPLE are still interested in the English language," writes a columnist in the New York Times. "They continue to be offended by bad pronunciation and write letters to the papers about it. They dislike sloppy literary style and complain in public." He goes on to give some examples of things that offend careful speakers and writers, asking:

"Why does a conference of college professors say 'consensus of opinion' when consensus by itself means an agreement of opinion? Why do people pronounce it 'redoose' instead of 'reduce,' and why does even the most ingratiating speaker of our age, Mr. Roosevelt, occasionally slip up and say, 'constatutional' instead of 'constitutional'?"

He might have gone farther and asked why the president, along with most of his fellow-countrymen, persists in saying "buhlong" and "buhgin" and "buhlieve," instead of pronouncing the "e" in the first syllable.

These are only a few of the errors of which public men and even college professors are guilty. The worst of it is the breaking down of a language that used to be beautiful, and may still be so in the mouth of a person careful in speech and sensitive to words.

Job for Honeymooners

MOST EMPLOYERS, selecting persons for a job demanding concentration, would not take honeymooners. They have the gift of concentration, it is true, but on each other. Yet the U. S. forest service reports that honeymooners make excellent fire lookouts.

Keeping a constant eye out for smoke from the tops of giant watch towers built in the most remote and highest parts of the national forests, has been considered one of the world's loneliest jobs. Loneliness, as well as company, can cause distraction from the task in hand. The forest service has lately tried eight married couples as watches in the Coeur d'Adlene woods in Idaho. The two pairs of eyes have done so much better than one that the service is even willing to take on honeymooners.

THE RATS IN THE CHEESE

Railroads Face Uncertain Future

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Of all industries, post-war railroading is the one concerning which economists are beginning to do the most worrying, as that sort of conditions adapt themselves to the changing present and a none too accurately predictable future.

Other industries are being completely made over to meet current requirements, but there will be an immediate demand for them to readjust themselves backward to "normalcy" directly after the conflict's over.

In fact, they will be called on to do it in hot haste, since there will be a tremendous clamor for their multiplicity of classes of products, insufficiently available today and due to be less and less so as the strife strings along. Indeed, they are likely to think that they are enjoying a boom for awhile.

Maybe it won't be a very healthy one and a slump will ensue and then a spell of depression. Nevertheless, civil life's consumerdom still will need their stuff; they will have customers. Their taxes will continue to be terrific, but they will have trade, with a certain amount of profits from which to meet the revenue collector's exactions.

But will transportation by rail ever again be what it was before the war, and is yet with war working it up to the limit, as it is doing now?

Folk have to have clothes to wear, food to eat, shelter to live under, and there are no substitutes for them. Their purveyors are bound to get that business, and it cannot be cut down on appreciably. They will screech over the taxes that they will have to pay, but most of them will survive, as industries.

Railroads' Rivals.

The railroads, though, have competition.

They have had it in the form of automobiles and now they've got it (and it is getting worse) in the form of aviation.

With the war on, there's been such an increase in the volume of movements of passengers and supplies that the rails, far from having felt a pinch in their traffic, have been kept scrambling to handle it all.

But what about the post-war era?

To say the least, according to economic prophets, rail transport, both of passengers and freight, will subside materially.

The roads' taxes will not subside, though.

Moreover, experts' account is that their equipment, worked nearly to death and unavoidably falling into disrepair, from lack of labor to keep it shipshape, is deteriorating, and at the war's end, will not be worth what it was previously.

Yet it will be taxed on the pre-war suppositions.

Levies will be on regular corporate income reckoning, federally, locally and miscellaneously and there will be federal excess profits earnings to be included as taxable.

Now, how many individual railroad stockholders will all this hit, through dividends on their shares?

$25,000,000,000 Industry.

Well, personal investments in America's railroads are estimated at between 20 and 25 billions. Perhaps their dividend checks will not slump to zero, but the guessing is that they will not miss it much.

Other corporations' stockholders will catch it, too, but the railroad contingent apparently will be socked worst. For one thing, railroad stocks have been regarded as particularly safe. Now, seemingly, they're especially jeopardized.

The difficulty of a corporation is that it always has been viewed as a soulless outfit, which quite properly can be levied on for all it can stand, and serve it right.

Some poor little widow, whose husband left her a few corporate shares, for a few hundreds of income in her old age, classes with multi-millionaire when her allowance filters through to her.

And neither is it, generally speaking, so bright an idea to have a big corporation "go bust"—being taxed to death.

But—

Who is going to prevent aviation from wishing the rails into the discard.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Sept. 28, 1922

Several Mansfielders paid fines for driving in excess of the 20-mile speed limit in Shelby.

Miss Marie L. Brissel and Raymond E. Hecht were married at St. Peter's Catholic church by Rev. L. J. Brissel, brother of the bride.

Party was given for Miss Florence Kochheiser on her birthday anniversary.

John C. Burns of Chicago only surviving charter member of Madison lodge, K. of P., attended meeting here.

Attendance at county fair was estimated at 20,000—largest in 20 years.

D. & H. Wallpaper company moved from North Walnut street into new building on Orange street.

Report at annual meeting of First Lutheran church showed 135 new members added during year.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On this date in 1781 began the American siege of Yorktown. A combined American and French army of 16,000 men under Washington and Rochambeau drew the lines closer and closer about Cornwallis, until, despairing of help, he later surrendered his entire army of 7,000 men, the surrender marking the end of the American Revolution.

Man About Manhattan

About People

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—People you meet around town:

Brenda Forbes — who, if she were to rap on your front door, you'd probably shoo around to the back. She's one of the most slattern, unimaginative nobodies you ever saw, but on purpose. For Brenda is one of the best character actors in the business, constantly at work, at present happily playing Brenda Forbes in "The Morning Star." She made her bow on the London stage years ago as a serving girl and has been playing that type of role since.

Walter Perner—a most unusual dance orchestra leader, who doesn't want to get famous or go on the radio. He has the unique idea that a dance orchestra should play dance music, with rhythm instead of improvisations. Must be something to it, because his band, now at the Roosevelt Grill, keeps steadily employed.

JOHN CHRISTIE - who hates Hitler. A stocky little waiter in G R's, a hole-in-the-wall seafood restaurant on West 49th street. John had four brothers in the Greek army. He's been trying for months and months to find out what happened to them, doesn't know if they are alive or dead. Yesterday John's son went into the U. S. army.

Willie Shore — a comparatively new funnyman who can spread out his gags over a two-hour stretch as master of ceremonies and still get laughs at the finish. A half-pint with wizened face and light feet, Willie used to be a ballet dancer before he began clowning. The town hadn't heard much about him until Bob Weidman booked him at the Paramount theater and Dave Wolper grabbed him for the Hurricane night club, but it's hearing plenty about Willie now.

JILL QUILL — whose name is authentic and who organized a real industry several years ago, from her abode in Brooklyn, by selling throw rugs made from cast off neckties.

Now most anybody could weave a throw rug together, given enough silk, but Jill's were and continue to be different. She gets her old ties from celebrities and stamps their name indelibly or them. Hence, a purchase might have you walking across the necks of Chas. Laughton, Robert Taylor, and 40 or 50 other celebrities. Jill takes orders by name — that is, she'll include your favorite's necktie if you ask for it. But it costs you more.

When one of the Three Clark Sisters who sing at the McAlpin fell ill the management was on the point of changing the billing. Happily, however, that wasn't necessary as there are actually six singing Clarks, and they merely wired home for the next in age (Mary) to join them in Manhattan. The remaining two are home in Nebraska.

Timely Editorial

Must You Go?

Home for a week-end furlough, a soldier told the other day of standing in a railroad coach from Baltimore to Harrisburg before he could get a seat. This was after a day in which he had hiked 25 miles with a 50-pound pack on his back.

Not every traveler is that weary to start with, but most everyone who rides the trains or inter-city busses these days reports that seats are at a premium.

Many of the passengers are obviously on necessary business. And no one would begrudge a soldier or sailor the opportunity to visit his friends and relatives before going into action. But a good many people who are traveling don't actually have to do so.

Second Front Pressure Gaining As Russians Hold at Stalingrad

—By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

BOLSTERED by a month-long Russian defense of Stalingrad that has stirred the whole Allied world to amazed admiration, public demand for Anglo-American second front operations now, not next year, to relieve pressure on Soviet lines reached new intensity at the week-end.

Warnings of high Allied spokesmen against premature action went unheeded. Even the grim portents of heavy Canadian casualties at Dieppe and indicated near disaster for the British in the Tobruk raid failed to abate the calls for aggressive Allied action.

Wendell Willkie's talks with Soviet officialdom as President Roosevelt's personal emissary added fuel to the fire. He also noted keen Russian disappointment at Anglo-American failure as yet to move in effectively expect by air to divert German pressure.

Yet decision as to both the when and where of so stupendous an undertaking cannot conceivably be reached overnight or be based on any but utterly realistic military appraisal of the possibilities.

There is none too certain indication that the Allied strategic councils in Washington and London are fully informed as to either Nazi or Russian dispositions or the actual inroads into Axis reserve strength the five-month battle in Russia has cost.

It seems obvious that even in Africa, where the tables appear to be turned or turning strongly in Allied favor, the British command in Cairo lacks wholly dependable knowledge of the straits to which Marshal Rommel's once conquering Africa corps has been reduced.

The need of a second front has never been in dispute. The will to achieve it or a multiple front attack to catch the Axis with its lines now vastly extended in both Russia and Africa in a deadly cross fire is not lacking.

It will come, somehow, somewhere; but if it came prematurely disaster could result which could only increase, not decrease, Russia's peril. Moscow authorities know that as well as Washington and London for all the disappointment they voice.

Axis Effort to Bolster Morale Seen In Anniversary Strategy

—By GLENN BABB

THE AXIS celebrated last week-end the anniversary of its attempt to frighten the United States into a permanent sideline position in the war to determine the character of tomorrow's world. Two years ago yesterday at Berlin, the foreign ministers of Germany and Italy and Japan signed the treaty of Berlin.

They pledged to one another all possible aid, including that of arms, should any of them be attacked by a power not then engaged in the European or Chinese wars. They specifically exempted Soviet Russia from their gesture of menace.

From that moment many far-sighted men were convinced that the involvement of the United States in war was inevitable. So it has been proved. Against the all-embracing, ruthless ambitions of the three robber barons the strongest will to peace was unavailing.

This anniversary is the first since the war became truly global through Japan's attack on the United States. Therefore the Axis capitals are at special pains to mark the occasion with renewed protestations of their fidelity, their generaus purposes for mankind, their confidence of victory. Day after day their radio stations have blared out thousands of words on these themes. The vigor and volume of the outpouring at least suggests that the need for a spiritual tonic is felt by the "powers of the new order," as they refer to themselves.

A COMPARISON of the world maps of September, 1941, and Semtember, 1942, certainly will not disclose why this should be. Reckoned in thousands of square miles conquered, in millions enslaved, and in booty taken, the last 12 months brought the Axis, at least its two major partners, success without parallel in the history of international brigandage.

Hitler's armored columns have reached the Volga and stand a 15-minute bomber flight from the Nile. Hirohito's legions dominate an Asiatic community of half a billion souls, swarming over nearly all East Asia, most of the East Indies and penetrating even to the island outposts of North America.

It has been a year of Axis triumph mitigated for the United Nations only by the recent victories of the Coral sea, Midway, the Solomons, the halting of Roumel in the desert and the magnificent, incomparable stand of the Red army at Stalingrad.

But the little men who, at Berlin two years ago, made certain that America would fight, must feel, in spite of the maps, like Aladdins who rubbed the wrong lamps and loosed the wrong genii. The power of the greatest of these—the industrial might of the United States—is not yet felt in great measure directly on the battlefields but its shadow looms ominously over all the Axis councils.

AGAINST this background it becomes easy to understand why the Tokyo, Berlin and Rome broadcasts worked up such a hurrah over the story that the Japanese navy had extended its operations to the Atlantic, apparently by means of a submarine that had reached a German naval base. There was need, for purposes of this anniversary, of some tangible evidence of the unity. The Asahi of Tokyo, Japan's most influential newspaper, told it thus:

"The powerful handshake between the Japanese fleet and the fleets of the Axis powers, which our enemies always have feared, now has happened and doubtless will lead to an essential strengthening of the striking power of the Axis fleets."

The Axis propaganda machine runs on strange fuel but none stranger than this.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

(Editor's Note: Never before in a war have U. S. fighting men been granted so many legal benefits and economic protections. In three articles, Jack Stinnett, Washington correspondent for The News-Journal, discusses many of the things congress has done for the men in uniform.)

WASHINGTON — Life for the fighting man of World War II is no downy coach. He has to be rough, tough and a smart jack of more trades than one. But he can go off to the wars knowing that never in history has congress taken so many precautions to see that service men (and women) get so much in pay, legal protection, benefits for dependents and assurance of economic security when they come marching home.

Probably everybody knows that the service men's base pay now starts at $50 a month; that with the exception of a few grades in the Australian army, the U. S. soldier is the best paid in the world, receiving more than four times as much as a British soldier; 12 times as much as a Russian; and in the case of a private, 160 times as much as a Jap.

IT HASN'T been so widely publicized that noncommissioned officers and privates get a 20 per cent (and commissioned officers a 10 per cent) bonus for service overseas; that he gets an automatic 5 per cent raise every three years; that if he is a paratrooper, he gets $50 a month bonus; that there are also bonuses for flying soldiers and men in other hazardous branches; that the lowliest private is reckoned by the army to be earning the civilian equivalent of $1,700 a year.

That doesn't take into consideration either what total or partial dependents get. It doesn't consider that 1-cent a mile (or round trip basis) that is deducted from his train fare while on furlough or the cash allowance he gets on his return for rations he didn't eat (42 to 56 cents a day.)

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act of 1940 covers a lot. It authorizes the courts to stay execution of judgments and stay (or even vacate) attachments and garnishments against men in the service. It protects against the lapse of certain life insurance policies; against forced payment while in the service of too burdensome income taxes owed at the time of induction.

It won't prevent the eviction of a man's family for nonpayment of rent, but it clears the way for staying that eviction for a while. Under some circumstances, it protects the man in service against sale of his properties for nonpayment of taxes.

BY EXTENDING the statute of limitations on his debts by that length of time which he is in service, it relieves the creditors of being forced to take action on such debts while a man is in service.

In addition to all of that, congress has provided that men in the service may take out insurance policies from $1,000 to $10,000, in multiples of $500. There is nothing compulsory about it. After a year they may be converted to 20-pay, 30-pay, or ordinary life policies.

A Farmer's Diary

The First Fire

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE MORNING was cool. Fog lay thick in the valley, and along the hillside pale waves drifted, making whited tatters on bush and tree. Jays screamed loudly upon the slope, and crows cawed mournfully, on the wing. Late robins perched on glistening branches, with bedraggled feathers, and were silent. It was past time for sunrise, but no sun was visible. The screened open windows of our sleeping room breathed dampness far inside.

Some time ago, I had prepared for such a season. In the basement I had a fine dry pile of kindling. I knelt beside the furnace, opened the ponderous door, and carefully laid the fine split pieces atop a piece of crumpled newspaper. With some ceremony, I lighted the match, and touched the flickering, long drawn flame to the extending paper.

I watched the progress of the spreading flame. Each separate tongue lighted up new areas of darkened space until the opening about the grate beneath glowed warm and pleasantly red. Odors of seasoned oak rose like a sweet incense about my face. Little eddying blue transparent threads of smoke swirled along the upper portion of the cast iron door.

I sat back, primitive fashion, and listened to the warmer roaring fire inside which cast weird flickering shadows on the wall beside me. Perhaps, I thought, some ancient dweller, of some nameless cave a half million years ago marveled just as I do now, at similar fleeting shadows on his cavern walls, and smiled in humble thankfulness at the sight of roaring flames leaping up to warm the farthest corners of his house.

I had lit the first match of our winter fire. I went upstairs, drew a chair close to the registef, and put my feet upon it. I heard the crackle and snap of the flames beneath and gentle waves of warmth bathed my hands and face.

"Kneel always when you light
a fire
Kneel reverently
And grateful be
To God for his unfailing Charity."

GERMANS FLY MORE TROOPS TO STALINGRAD

Reinforce Army as Volga City Becomes Pivot to All Allied Strategy.

word that Stalingrad still stands fitted like the needed part of a jig-saw puzzle into an Allied strategy which appeared to be aimed at exacting as much time as possible for the preparation of action against the Germans on another front.

Each day gained, unless at the cost of Russian collapse, added to the assurance of success for the eventual stroke at Germany at the rear or aflank.

There were coinciding week-end statements by Wendell L. Willkie and General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, Britain's top-drawer strategist commanding British forces in India, which riveted new attention on the battle of Stalingrad.

Russia, Wavell said, would stick it out and British and American troops will fight their way onto the European continent as soon as possible.

Willkie, before leaving Moscow for Chungking, called in forthright fashion for creation of the second front before next summer when, he said, it "might be too late." Allied military leadership, he added, might need "some public prodding" and British labor leaders, taking the cue, called for an immediate answer to Willkie by the Churchill government.

In western Europe there was a recess in the air war evidently imposed by the weather.

From Istanbul, Turkey, however, it was disclosed that bombers from the United States have figured strongly in raids on Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and the puppet state of Croatia in the past two weeks.

The base for the attacks and the nationality of the attackers remained veiled by a hit-them-hard-and-tell-them-nothing policy.

The war still marked time in Africa.

Behind the facade of Hitler's new Europe there was a new and ominous stirring.

An unconfirmed report reaching the American embassy at Vichy, France, said about 300 Americans had been taken into custody by Germans in occupied France.

They long have been liable to internment as enemy aliens in the Germans' eyes, but Paris advices reaching Bern, Switzerland, indicated the Germans were planning to use the Americans as hostages, possibly to gain the return of Germans interned in the United States.

In unoccupied France the United States was confronted with a new harassment — the barring of its citizens from air travel. The American embassy asked for explanations.

Amid these strange goings-on one could find in Vichy, France a rumor to support almost any thesis—even one that Pierre Laval, chief of government, feared to go all out in conscription of French workers for Germany and had threatened to fly to Africa.

General Maxime Weygand, according to another report, had been summoned from retirement to advise the Vichy government on defense of North Africa.

Laval appeared to have weathered an internal attack on his regime, having ousted Jacques Benoist-Mechin, a secretary of state in the foreign ministry, who, according to some observers, seemed to run ahead even of Laval in a desire to help Germany.

War, Prosperity Boost Population By 50 Per Cent

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Census figures released today show that wartime marriages and increased prosperity pushed population up at a rate 50 per cent faster than normal 1941.

The census report placed the United States population at 133,965,000 on Jan. 1, 1942 and revealed that the figure represents an increase of 1,227,000 people over estimates for the previous year.

"The increase during 1941," the report said, "is almost 60 per cent greater than the average annual increase of about 889,000 between the 1930 and 1940 census issues."

The acceleration in population growth, the bureau said, is due primarily to a rise in birth rate, with no corresponding rise in the number of deaths.

zai!" in an attempt to overwhelm badly outnumbered marine posts. They threw up smoke screens and yelled in English "gas attack!" hoping to confuse the defenders.

The marine positions, facing inland from the north shore of Guadalcanal island, were based on the air field.

Col. Merritt Edson, Chester, Vt., held the inland front. Lieut. Col. William McKelvy, jr., Washington, D. C., held the east or left flank and Lieut. Col. Fred C. Biebush, Detroit, the west or right flank.

Japanese warships under cover had been landing strong forces of picked trops, trained in jungle fighting, to the west and east of the marine positions at night.

The show opened Sept. 12. Three times during the day big forces of enemy planes raided the marine positions hoping to soften the defenses.

Four Japanese light cruisers and destroyers which had steamed up to firing range laid down a barrage. They poured salvoes into the marine positions in the hills, just over the horizon from the shore, for 10 minutes by the light of their stabbing searchlights.

Coast defense searchlights picked them out and the shore guns thundered a retort. The enemy ships could not take it and withdrew.

On the morning of the 13th a Zero fighter squadron attacked. Marine and navy fighters intercepted and shot down four. Two-motored bombers attacked at noon. Long before they reached the targets the defense fighters had downed four of them and forced the others to jettison their bombs.

On the east or left flank, Maj. McKelvy's men had their battle on the night of the 13th when the Japanese made their main thrust at the center.

A small group of Japanese tested McKelvy's positions on the Tenaru river. They found them too strong and withdrew.

Then the Japanese made a stronger attack. McKelvy ordered his advanced posts withdrawn. All reached the main line but one, which was surrounded. One marine of that post got back.

The Japanese kept thrusting all night, but each time rifle and machine gun fire was too strong for them and they never even reached the marine line.

At dawn the enemy withdrew and tanks went out to hunt down any snipers left behind in the grass.

The last enemy attempt was made against Biebush's west or left flank.

It was dawn Sept. 14 when the Japanese attacked here. They never got to first base. They struck at fortified positions and machine gun emplacements near the beach and inland. They tried a light bayonet charge. They got nowhere and at 8:30 a. m. gave up, retreating under heavy artillery fire.

NEW EQUIPMENT BROUGHT IN TO HURRY PAVING

Concrete Work Expected To Be Started Tomorrow on 30-N Grade Separation Job.

hadn't checked the progress of the job for at least a month.

Richland county contributed in the neighborhood of $48,000 toward the $497,000 grade separation program.

Mayor W. J. Locke revealed today that after he inspected the job early in September and noted apparent delays, he communicated with the state highway department and was advised on Sept. 17, in a letter from Grimes, that the job could be completed by Nov. 15.

Last week, after Grimes indicated he might approve the 90-day extension request submitted by Lombardo Brothers, there followed a declaration from a state highway department engineer in Columbus that no extension would be necessary and by announcement from the Erie railroad maintenance of way department that transfer of the road's trackage to the new overhead span would be completed in 10 days.

Representatives of the contracting firm had claimed that delay of 90 days was caused by governmental sidestracking of their order for fabricated steel for the bridge structures and requisitioning of equipment for newer war projects.

County Engineer Howard Sword said today that inasmuch as there is only three-fifths of a mile of concrete pavement to be laid he "sees no reason why the job can't be finished by the deadline if the weather holds good."

Loan of county equipment without charge to the Lombardo firm six weeks ago was revealed today by Mitchell. The county materiel has been returned, Mitchell said.

The loan was made, Mitchell said, because Lombardo had transferred equipment to war department contracts, obtained since the grade job was started, in Louisville and Cleveland.

Howard Herring, former Mansfielder, completed a reconstruction project on Route 42 at Medina last week and was asked by Grimes to consult with the Lombardo Brothers in an effort to speed work on the grade eliminations.

There was evidence today that pouring of concrete will be well under way this week.

mobile. Noticing Ward's plight, he told the stranded autoist:

"Take my spare and bring it back when you get yours fixed."

Ward, who never had seen the Good Samaritan before, was dumbfounded. He pointed out that he was driving a car with Pennsylvania license plates, that he could post no security.

"Forget it," said the Samaritan. "You look honest. I'm not worried."

He took off the spare, but found it was too soft to use. Ward then suggested that he call his (Ward's) home and somebody would pick him up. The Good Samaritan agreed, but a short time later returned with his spare tire inflated. He hadn't been able to reach Ward's home, so he drove back to help him out.

"I think," says Ward, "such an example of the golden rule is something everybody should know, for it does show that goodness still exists in this tough old world."

The Good Samaritan? His name is Norbert Briggs, a railroad employe who lives in suburban Shaker Heights.

Earl C. Pollock was in charge of arrangements for the event. Approximately 200 persons were given free sailboat rides during the day from the club docks.

VETERANS, AUXILIARY HAVE ANNUAL DINNER

New Officers of 37th Division A. E. F. Veterans' Association and Auxiliary Installed By National Presidents Saturday.

ANNUAL dinner and installation of officers of the Thirty-seventh Division A. E. F. Veterans' association and auxiliary was held Saturday night in the Swiss Navy room of the American Legion home. Sixty-five members and five guests were present. The visitors included Col. Kenneth E. Little of Columbus, national president; Mrs. Maurice Connor of Lima, national auxiliary president; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shover and Mrs. Beetem of Columbus.

The master of ceremonies, C. O. Lister, introduced the speakers and national presidents, who installed the new officers. Leading the activities of the veterans' association for the coming year are William M. DeHart, president; H. B. Emmer, vice president; and Paul Webber, secretary-treasurer. Officers of the auxiliary are Mrs. Floyd Buzzard, president; Mrs. C. C. Myers, vice president; and Mrs. Ralph Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

An inspiring address was given by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, who also presented a prayer that he had written especially for the chapter. Glenn Bierly, captain of Company F, gave a talk on the organization and duties of the home guard and of the need of men to participate in protection of the city.

A flag purchased by the association was formally presented during the ceremonies and a war bond bought by the auxiliary also was received at that time. During a brief business session held by the women, plans were made for a benefit card party to be held at the American Legion home on Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 2 and 8 p. m. Proceeds will go toward the local chapter's quota to fulfill the national organization's pledge to raise $15,000 for smokes, candy and other items for men serving in the 37th Division. Parents, families, wives and sweethearts of the men are invited to participate in the party.

Mrs. Donald Leuthner has been appointed general chairman for the party. Ticket committee chairman is Mrs. E. C. Hannan and Mrs. H. B. Emmer and Mrs. Harry Uplinger will have charge of prizes. Other committees will be appointed in the near future. The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held in the Memorial building at 8 p. m. on Oct. 22.

Katherine Culp Exchanges Vows At Home Sunday

Atty. and Mrs. Frank S. Culp announce the marriage of their daughter, Katherine, to John Carlisle Gilbert of Cleveland. The ceremony was performed at the family home, 386 Marion avenue, by Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 in the presence of the immediate family.

Preceding the service, Mrs. Samuel C. Theaker, sister of the bride, played Schubert's "Ave Maria" and the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The couple was unattended and took the vows before a mantel banked with palms, ferns and graduated white tapers, centered by an arrangement of white gladioli, carnations and pompons. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding, Miss Culp chose a brown wool suit trimmed with silk cord and brown accessories. A corsage of green orchids completed the ensemble. The bride's mother was attired in a forest-green dress with touches of gold on the belt having a corsage of Token roses.

Refreshments were served from the dining room table being centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom. White carnations, swansonia and lighted white tapers completed the decorations Presiding at the table was Miss Grace Culp.

The newlyweds left for Dearborn, Mich., for their trip. Mrs. Gilbert attended Heidelberg college, graduated from Ashland college and did graduated work at the University of Wisconsin. She is a member of Pi Alpha Delta sorority, the American Association of University Women and for the past several years has been a teacher at John Simpson junior high school.

Mr. Gilbert, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Gilbert, Columbus, is a graduate of East high school at Columbus and the Army Air School at Kelly field, Tex. He is employed at the Eaton Manufacturing company in Cleveland. They will make their home there on 2044 Cornell road.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE BIG HAND DECIDES

Among the "big shots" of tournament bridge are few who do not consider the best test of skill is that in which two teams of four players each come together. The North-South pair of Team 1 meets the East-West pair of Team 2 at one table, and at the other the North-South pair of Team 2 meets the East-West pair of Team 1 on the same deals. But there are two ways of scoring such a match. One is to add up all of the contract points scored by one team and subtract from it those scored by the other, to find the net result. The other is to count each deal as a single contest, awarding one match point for winning it and a half for tying.

Deal No.	N-S Scores Tbl 1	Tbl 2	Match Pts Tm 1	Tm 2
1	+450	+ 420	1
2	+110	+ 50	1
3	−140	− 200	1
4	+600	+ 600	½	½
5	−400	− 430	1
6	−450	− 400		1
7	+420	+ 170	1
8	+680	+1430		1
9	−130	− 130	½	½
10	−150	− 200	1
Net
Total	990	1310	7	3

The respective results, at the two tables, on the different deals among those ten in the summary above, were as follows. 4-Spades plus an extra trick, 4-Spades; 2-Hearts made, 3-Diamonds by East down 1; 3-Hearts made by West, 3 Spades by North doubled and down 1; 3-No Trumps at both tables, 3-No Trumps made by East, 3-No Trumps by East plus as extra trick; 4-Hearts by West plus an extra trick, 3-No Trumps by East; 4-Spades, 3-Spades plus an extra trick; 4-Hearts plus two extras, 6-Hearts; 4-Diamonds by East at both tables; 2-No Trumps by West plus an extra trick, 4-Diamonds by North doubled down 1.

Notice that Team 2 was pretty badly licked by the time deal 8 came along. Scoring was of the total point variety, and North of Team 2, taking a wild chance on bidding small slam, made it because two finesses worked and a key suit was divided 3-3 in the opponents' hands.

Now on total point play, Team 2 would win that match by the difference between 1310 and 990 points, or by a margin of 320. If match point scoring be used, Team 1 would win by a score of 7 to 3, having won six deals and tied two, whereas the opponents won only two deals and tied two.

Which do you consider the fairer method of scoring such a game—total points or match points? There are arguments on each side.

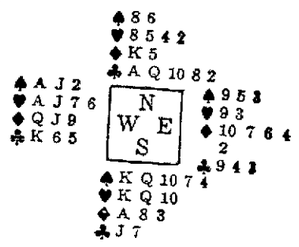
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer, East. North-South vulnerable.)

What principle of defense must be employed by West on this deal in order to defeat 3-No Trumps by South?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"You know I can trust you in anything, Aunt Madge," Ronald said. "But what does this all mean? My little sister! God! She must have been planning for this when she was writing me that she felt she could help if we only would permit her to come to New York."

There was the anguish of betrayal and of the shattering of an ideal in his boyish voice.

"Don't judge her yet, Ronald," I adjured him. "Of course she was planning this attempt to get away, when she wrote you.

Hysterical Child.

"She apparently is so terrified she is not responsible for what she is doing," I added. "But I know this—that my father will do everything in his power to find out what is motivating her conduct.

"And here is where you can help," I went on, "but it won't be easy for you."

"Tell me what to do," he said through suddenly palid lips.

"Come to the room where Carol is and speak to her through the door," I said. 'She probably will tell you that she is being terribly abused, but the worst that can be happening to her is a strong arm holding her in a chair and a hand across her mouth—treatment it is sometimes necessary to use with an hysterical child. And that is what she is, after all, Ronald.

"But I want you to tell her, kindly but firmly, that you cannot help her, and that she must go with my father and help him."

Madge Tells Plan.

"You don't want me to see her?" he asked, as if he would welcome a negative answer.

"No, there is no need of that," I told him, "but will you talk to her through the door?"

"Of course I will," he said.

"I will go in now and shut the door," I whispered, "then tell Carolyn you wish to speak to her through the door. Stand to one side so she cannot see you."

"All right," he whispered, and I opened the door.

The nurse was sitting erect at the foot of the bed on which Carolyn was lying, still rolled in the blanket with which Miss Whitlock had stopped her screaming.

Carolyn Rebellious.

"May I speak to her?" I asked the nurse. "I have a message for her."

She nodded acquiescence, but Carolyn said pettishly "I won't listen," and put her fingers in her ears, but with swift agility Miss Whitlock took the twisting hands firmly in her own.

"I told you to behave yourself," she said, with steel in her low voice, "If I release your hands, will you listen quietly?"

"What else can I do?" Carolyn asked sullenly, and the nurse sat down again

"Ronald is outside Carolyn," I said. "He doesn't wish to see you or talk with you, but has promised me to tell you some things I know you would not believe if I brought the message. Will you listen to him quietly if I open the door, so you can hear him and not see him?"

Hot Cardinals Face Yanks In World Series Wednesday

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The spirit of vengeance which keyed Mansfield high school's undefeated 1941 football team is bouncing back on the Tygers of '42.

"We want revenge," was the battle cry of last year's Tygers in nearly every game, revenge for beatings in seasons past. And they got it too. They didn't spare the horses as they piled up the huge scores which marked their triumphant march in the 1941 campaign.

Now they are finding their opponents battling for revenge for last season, and the gates of mercy are closed.

Take Elyria, for instance. The Elyria Chronicle-Telegram of Saturday happily chronicled:

Probably no need for verification, but ask any of the Elyria high gridders what they think of their last night's 27-13 victory over the Mansfield high Tygers.

The Mansfield game was one game that Coach Roy Clymer and his aides and the players themselves wanted to win. . . . Didn't they still have in mind that unmerciful drubbing taken at the hands of the Tygers last year, a year when the Tygers were definitely 'up' and the Pioneers were definitely 'down'?

Didn't they remember that Coach Paul Snyder of the Tygers, despite a long lead which the Pioneers had no hopes of overtaking, allow his regulars to remain in the game most of the way and rub it in?

Sure, they did . . . Why, they told practically everyone in town this week what they were going to do at Mansfield, how they were going to avenge the debacle of a year ago. . . . And they weren't merely boasting for they carried out what they said they were going to do.

Most of the Pioneer regulars saw 48-minute service . . . Clymer used only three subs —a fullback, a guard and a tackle. . . All the rest were in from start to finish.

Thus spake the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram. Let's hope the Sandusky Register-Star-News will not be able to repeat the gloating words come next Saturday.

JACOBS PUTS INDIAN SIGN ON DETROIT

DETROIT—(AP)—The old Indian sign was all the Cleveland Rams needed to break that five-year jinx.

Jack Jacobs of the Oklahoma Creek tribe, put the sign on—but good—with two touchdown passes that whipped the Detroit Lions 14 to 0 in a National league football game played before 14,646 spectators here yesterday. It was Cleveland's first victory at Detroit since joining the league in 1937.

It was the second straight victory for the Rams.

GOLF TOURNAMENT POSTPONED SUNDAY

Third annual Richland county golf tournament at Westbrook Country club was rained out yesterday, and postponed until next Sunday with the same schedule of starting times carried over.

After an all-night rain, the wet stuff was still descending at teetime yesterday morning, and the postponement was welcomed by both the golfers and the Westbrook greenskeeper.

Buckeyes Prep for Indiana

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's young batch of footballers get their acid test next Saturday as they meet Coach Bo McMillin's "pore little boys" from Indiana in the feature attraction of a 20-game week-end program involving Buckeye squads.

While the battling Bucks were running over Fort Knox by 59 to 0 last Saturday, the Hoosiers were defeating Butler of Indianapolis—touted as a pretty fair grid team—53 to 0. Billy Hillenbrand, tagged as the "back of the year," scored only one touchdown, but the Hoosier hotshot is the No. 1 man on the Bucks' "watch him" list.

Paul E. Brown isn't sure whether the Bucks are a great team, or whether they just ran into a decidedly weak foe in the Fort Knox crew. The same reasoning holds good for the Indiana conquest of Butler.

In 20 previous encounters the Hoosiers have been able to beat the Bucks only three times, the Ohioans having outscored the Indiana crew 311 to 76 for the long route.

"Those games," Brown said, "are gone. Past records don't mean a thing. All those points won't help us a bit Saturday, and this looks like a tough—maybe too tough—ball game."

Other games on the week-end schedule are:

Friday afternoon — Muskingum at Otterbein, and Defiance at Capital.

Friday night—Denison at Mount Union, and Youngstown at St. Vincent's (Latrobe, Pa.)

Saturday afternoon — Iowa Cadets (B team) at Case, Findlay at Kent State, Wooster at Wittenberg, Akron at Ohio U., Ohio Northern at Albion, Mich.; Cincinnati at Western Reserve, Illinois Wesleyan at Toledo, Bluffton at Kenyon, Bowling Green at Ohio Wesleyan, Hiram at Grove City, Pa.; Heidelberg at Dayton, Miami at Dartmouth, and Wright-Patterson Field vs. Miami Radio Trainees at Hamilton.

Saturday night — John Carroll at Baldwin Wallace.

Sunday afternoon—Fort Knox at Xavier.

Four of the games bring together undefeated teams, assuring a few more sullied records. The battles between unbeaten squads involve Reserve and Cincinati, Bowling Green and Wesleyan, Baldwin Wallace and John Carroll, and Otterbein and Muskingum. Five squads—Wittenberg, Ohio U., Kenyon, Defiance and Capital, launch their campaigns with this week's frays.

Indians Take Fourth Place

Reach Goal Set By Lou Boudreau Last Spring.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—With some mighty oar-pulling at the finish, youthful Pilot Lou Boudreau—ending his first voyage on the managerial seas — brought his Cleveland Indians into the port he set out for eight months ago, the American league's first division.

The Indians yesterday closed the 1942 season with an 8 to 0 shutout over the Detroit Tigers to win sole possession of fourth place.

Jim Bagby, turning in his 17th victory, pitched a six-hit game and put the Tribe two games ahead of the Tigers. Had he lost, the Indians would have tied for fourth place with the Bengals

The triumph gave Cleveland a record of 75 victories and 79 defeats, the same as last year when it tied for fourth place.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(WW)—That National league race was a thriller, all right, but we wonder if the Cards will be able to get themselves steamed up for the world series by Wednesday . . . The Yankees, who ought to know, insist there's an inevitable letdown when the pennant is clinched, whether it happens on the last day or a month before the season ends. . . . One minor league official hit it right on the head when he was waiting to learn whether his club would be going into the playoffs or just going home. He said: "We sit around at the winter meetings and talk about what a swell thing it would be to have an eight-club race right up to the last minute. . . . But we don't mean it." . . . Anyway, there's some consolation for Brooklyn fans. The football Dodgers are winning.

PRECIOUS PIGSKIN

The Columbia-Ft. Monmouth game last Saturday drew only about 6,000 customers, but when the game football was "auctioned" off between the halves a total of $8,475 in war bond purchases was pledged by the bidders. . . . The winner of the autographed ball was Mrs. Betty Cohen, who "bid" a $3,000 bond.

MONDAY MATINEE

If Leo Durocher leaves the Dodgers for the navy, the guys in line for the Brooklyn manager's job are Chuck Dressen, Bucky Harris and Billy Herman . . . The fight mob is giving a farewell party for Jimmy Braddock and Joe Gould Wednesday night, giving them time to recover before they enter the army Friday.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Jim Schlemmer, Akron Beacon Journal: "Last year fans were calling them 'the Pennant-winning Dodgers.' This year they are calling them, among other things, the 'penant dodgers.' Few teams ever have done a better job of dodging a pennant which was practically nailed to the flagpole."

Zediker Captures Club Championship

Gene Zediker, Westbrook Country club golf champion, today also holds the championship of the University club with a 73 turned in in the club tournament last Friday.

Second low card was marked up by Marion Ward with an 81.

W. S. "Bank" Ross and Paul Endriss tied for low net, while blind bogey winners were: Paul Cropper, J. A. McDermid, C. R. Hein, William Black, J. C. Gorman, Robert Richards.

Bob Stevens took the prize for fewest putts with 25, and other prize winners in special events were W. R. Riester, Bill Bloor and Martin Brunner. Paul Endriss and Marion Ward jr. were the committee in charge.

The tournament was staged in connection with the semi-annual meeting and dinner of the club, at which Tom Ford was elected president, Lloyd Brown secretary, and Paul Eliot, treasurer.

'We'll Win' Declare Cards Awaiting Battle With Yanks

By GENE ROGUSKI

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—"We'll win!"

That was the confident battlecry of the St. Louis Cards, new champions of the National league, today as they prepared to meet New York's formidable Yankees in baseball's annual fall classic—the World Series.

"We know the Yankees will be tough, but we believe we can beat them," declared Manager Billy Southworth. Southworth's sentiments were echoed by every Cardinal member from Pitcher Ernie White, hero of the game that put the club "in" yesterday, to the bat boys.

"We've got to win for Billy," was the sentiment expressed among the players generally. It was Southworth who refused to concede the pennant fight lost when his club was 10 games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers early in August.

The Card's remarkable stretch drive, one of the most sensational in baseball history, found them winning 43 of their last 52 games, finishing the season with Sunday's double victory over the Chicago Cubs, 9-2 and 4-1.

The pair of wins gave them a total of 106 victories and 48 defeats for the year—a better record than the Yanks' 103 won and 51 lost—and placed them two full games ahead of the Dodgers.

Southworth's team with an age average of 26 years, is the youngest Cardinal outfit ever to enter the World's series and one of the youngest clubs ever to win a pennant in either league.

But youth isn't bothering them any.

"The Yankees?" asked Terry Moore, the Cards' captain.

"They're a great ball club, but we're not afraid of them. We beat 'em in spring training and, of course, that doesn't count now, but the boys feel that we can beat 'em and if we don't—they'll know they have been through a helluva battle.

"This ball club is at its peak right now."

Southworth announced his starting pitchers in the series, opening at St. Louis Wednesday, will be Morton Cooper, John Beazley, Max Lanier and White. This quartet won a total of 63 games and lost 26 during the season.

Cooper, the club's star righthander, won 22 games, 10 of them shutouts, and lost seven. Beazley won 21 and lost six; Lanier won 13 and lost eight, and White won seven and lost five.

Only three men on the Cards' roster have seen series competition before: Harry Gumbert, pitcher, who was with the Giants in 1936 and 1937; Ken O'Dea, catcher, with the Cubs in 1935 and 1938, and Pitcher Lloyd (Whitey) Moore, with Cincinnati in 1939 and 1940.

Southworth, dubbed the "Cinderella manager" for his team's pennant drive, would like nothing better than to pin the Yankees' ears back, of course. But aside from an understandable urge to do so as manager of the National league entry, Billy has another motive.

He played in the outfield for the 1926 Cardinal team that brought St. Louis its first National league flag. The American league entry was the Yanks and that series was the last the Yanks lost. Southworth would like to help history repeat itself.

* * *

Dizzy Dean, pitching star of the 1934 Cardinals, another pennant winner, was among those who congratulated the new champions.

"This is a sounder club than we had in '34," Dean said. "It's got everything."

Picks Cards To Capture Crown

Likes Pitching Staff of National Winners.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Look out below! We're climbing right out on that high, shaky limb and picking the Cardinals to beat the Yankees in the World series.

We're selecting the St. Louis swifties to take the series four games to three in one of the greatest classics of baseball history. We like the Red Birds because of their winning momentum, their fighting edge, their youthful speed and their luck among other things.

Lady Luck quite likely will prove an ultra-important factor in this particular series, which promises top-flight pitching and lightning infield play by both outfits. Although both clubs pack dangerous batting punch, we don't expect long-driving to turn the tide because:

1. Both teams have excellent outfields.

2. The pitchers seem capable of preventing distance spot-hitting.

There, we say: watch for the infield breaks, and watch the Cards take advantage of those breaks.

We may be looking at the clubs from a cock-eyed angle, but we prefer the Cardinals pitching staff because it apparently is better balanced. Billy Southworth has two ace right-handers, Cooper and Beazley, and two good southpaws, Lanier and White, whom he can use as starters. And for relief he has Southpaw Pollet and right-handers Krist, Gumbert and Dickson.

Red Birds Hold Edge On Series

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)— Syracuse Manager Jewel Ens is coming back at Columbus tonight with Clayt Lambert, big righthander who handcuffed the Red Birds with five hits in last Thursday's opener of the little world series as his pitching choice.

Skipper Eddie Dyer's American association club holds a 2-1 edge in the 25th annual minor league classic, by virtue of Saturday night's 4-3 win over the International league chiefs.

Yesterday afternoon's contest was postponed.

Dyer nominated Elwin (Preacher) Roe to take the mound. Roe, a lefthander, won only six while losing 11 for the Birds, but is a late-season hurler, picking up steam when the nights are cool. Lambert, six-foot two-inch fireballer, won seven and lost three during the regular season, and has copped three playoff games. He will be seeking his ninth straight win.

New National League Champs Win Twin Bill

Leave No Doubt As To Outcome of Pennant Race With Brooklyn

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE shooting and the shouting are over for baseball's 1942 season, and the only thing left for the boys to fight about is whether the St. Louis Cardinals are a tired ball club after their skyrocket ride into the National league pennant, or whether they'll still be hot against the Yankees in the world series.

The war's first campaign wound up yesterday, with considerable confusion over what baseball can look forward to for the rest of the war, and with the Cards winning both ends of a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs to knock the Brooklyn Bums off the National league throne.

It was this surge of St. Louis that had the folks bouncing around in their chairs as the race went right down to the wire with the Cards finally getting the nod by two games. Yesterday's twin win marked the 43rd victory for the Cards in their last 52 games to come from far back and take the flag. And until the Redbirds stack up against the Yanks, no one can be quite sure whether that drive took too much out of them to keep up the pace.

On the other hand, the Yanks were just waltzing along since they sewed up their sixth American league championship in seven years on Sept. 14. In their finale yesterday they were nosed out by the Red Sox 7-6 to finish with a nine-game bulge over the Bostons. In this taffy-pull, Tex Hughson treated himself to his 22nd victory of the year.

The Yanks go into the series Wednesday as 5 to 9 favorites in the betting, in spite of such St. Louis elbowing as may be offered by Mort Cooper and his sidekicks, among them Ernie White and Johnny Beazley, who turned the trick over the Cubs yesterday. It was in the first game, with White serving up a five-hitter, that the Cards clinched the flag by winning 9-2 Beazley took his 21st triumph of the year in the afterpiece, in which the Cards clicked by 4-1.

Incidentally, one note of pessimism for speed-baller Cooper in the series is that no fast-ball flinger has beaten the Yanks in a single game of the six series in their current run as baseball's top outfit.

The Dodgers ended their year yesterday with a 4-3 win over the Phillies to run their closing streak to eight straight to finish second.

The two third-place clubs, the New York Giants and St. Louis Browns wound up the season by taking a day off.

The only change in the standings on the final day saw the Pittsburgh Pirates pummel the Cincinnati Reds twice, 8-7 in 12 innings and 7 to 4 in the regulation nine, to climb over the Cubs into fifth place in the National league. The Reds finished fourth.

Cleveland clinched the rear end of the American league's first division by whitewashing Detroit 8-0 behind Jim Bagby's six-hit hurling. There was no other action on the big league front.

Ted Williams, with .356, and Ernie Lombardi, with .331 brought the two batting championships to Boston. And that, except for the final figures on the number of hot dogs consumed, the number of bottles of pop sent along to wash down the dogs, and the number of broken hearts in Brooklyn, just about pulls down the shade for the season.

A. Wagner Wins Rifle Matches

A. Wagner took first place in the 30-yard, off hand matches of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader rifle club shoot, with three firsts and a third in four trips to the firing line. E. Wagner was second with a first and a second in four matches.

A Wagner also took the string measure match in the same shoot with a string of 4.90 inches, with E. Wagner second and D. Utz third.

Shooting for group in the 50 yard rest matches, D. Utz took first with a .25 group, T. Nelson second with .75, and T. Kelser third with 1.40.

In the string measure matches T. Kelser was first with 1.67, for three shots, and second with 1.94. J. Baldinger was third with a 2.50 string.

A. Wagner won possession of the Navy cup for the next three months with eight firsts, taking it from E. Adams who has held the trophy for the past quarter.

SCRAP METAL DRIVE BARELY MEETS NEEDS

Little Reserve Being Piled Up Against Demands of Winter Tonnage.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Moderately higher prices generally dominated today's stock market.

Gainers of fractions to around a point included Dow Chemical, Santa Fe, Norfolk & Western, Anaconda, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Standard Brands, North American and Radio Corp.

Followers of metal shares noted the comments of the magazine "Steel" regarding the threatened scrap shortage in this industry.

While conceding that the salvage campaign was being intensified, the magazine added that "at present the flow is little more than sufficient to maintain steel output at the current high rate, tonnage being laid down for winter use being insignificant."

Attention was given the summary of the federal deposit insurance corporation disclosing insured commercial banks in the fiscal year ended June 30 increased their holdings of government obligations by $6,500,000,000, with the total of $25,900,000,000 34 per cent above the corresponding 1941 period.

'FARM BLOC' SEES DEFEAT

Sen. Smith Declares Congress 'Not Worth Damn' After Failure to Alter Bill.

one of the "Big Four" leaders in the fight over ceiling prices on farm products.

Goss said that leaders of the farm organizations had conferred with some senators on possibility of dropping the Thomas amendment, and revising the compromise.

Under the Thomas amendment, all farm labor costs would be included in parity prices. Under the Barkley compromise, the president would fix ceiling prices on farm products, with the direction that he should raise prices if the increase in farm labor costs would create "gross inequities" if he failed to do so.

Sen. Elmer Thomas (D) Okla., insisted, however, that the senate would vote on his amendment. He conceded possibility of rejection.

"At least we have accomplished one thing—we have let the country know it will face a food shortage unless the farmer gets a fair price to produce his products," said Thomas.

Thomas said he planned to offer an amendment to provide for appointment of food supply directors.

Angered at charges of lobbying, President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation struck back at congressional critics.

"Talk about lobbying," he said. "We haven't done anything compared to the administration. The department (of agriculture) boys have been mighty busy. I've even heard they brought some national committeemen in on it."

Meanwhile, M. W. Thatcher, legislative chairman of the National Farm Bureau Federation which has disagreed with the agriculture "Big Four" on the parity issue, sent a telegram to every member of congress urging them to vote against the Thomas amendment.

Party lines were certain to be split in the vote, with some usually staunch administration supporters standing by the "farm bloc" amendment.

EASTERNER HAS RATIONING TIPS

You May Have Problems Early In Game But They'll Be Quickly Solved.

available supply the day before rationing goes in effect out there in the west.

In the big cities, you may have to wait in line for an hour or so, but don't worry. That sort of thing won't last long. A week or so at the most. After that there'll be gasoline for all, and no waiting. The trouble is you just won't be able to buy any, once the tickets in your ration book are gone.

That's when the real fun starts. First, you have to cut out all nonessential driving. Those mornings you drove junior to school; he'll have to take a bus now. Those shopping trips you took daily in to town, they're out too. So are the little jaunts over to Mabel's for bridge in the afternoon. And, of course, the Sunday afternoon drive in the country.

You'll begin to watch your mileage. You know: your car goes fifteen miles on a gallon and you have five gallons left; how far and where can you go to the best advantage? Some of you may even get so tired of it all that you'll put the old bus in the garage and ride a bus. Which won't help transportation congestion much either.

And you'll find out about car pools, those delightful inventions wherein car owners share their cars, and gasoline, with three or four other owners. You drive the gang one week, someone else drives them next week, the third neighbor the third week and so on.

Yes, you'll get tired of it all, at first. But then you'll remember the guys on Bataan and in the Solomons and in Iceland and you'll feel better. You'll realize, Mr. and Mrs. America West, that it isn't any fun in the foxholes either.

City, County, and State Patrol Officers To Join In Enforcement Move.

pending the start of gas rationing in November.

Price Administration Leon Henderson said the nation-wide rationing will limit the average driver to slightly less than four gallons a week. Others who can show need for more and who are considered essential to the war effort may get a little more than that. Motorists also will be required to submit their tires for check-up every 60 days.

State highway patrolmen, continuing the campaign against speeders, arrested five more drivers over the week-end. All of the motorists posted bond and signed waivers of appearance in court.

Edward Crowder of Cleveland was fined $25 and costs in the Ashland police court for passing another car on the right at the crest of a hill. Crowder was arrested on route 42. Two others also posted bond of $16.30 in Ashland court after being arrested for speeding. They were Arnold Burkholder of Akron and Charles Steioff, jr., of Norwood.

Beverly Jane Stadler of Parma posted bond of $16.30 in Mansfield Municipal court after being arrested for speeding.

George Rokas of Cleveland, arrested for crossing a yellow line on route 42-S, posted $10 and costs in the court of Justice of the Peace J. H. Wiles in Lexington.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Glamour factory at war:

If there can be such a thing as a silver lining to war clouds, Hollywood has found a couple: war has simplified the problem of the villain, and war has revived the chase as a dramatic asset.

Coons

The chase, long-time ingredient of movie thrillers, had come to a point where it had to be a double-hum-dinger before you really sat up and took notice. Sometimes, when it was just a routine chase of cowboys after cattle rustlers, you could sit back and reflect on things like feminine headgear — especially that feathered sample just in front—or last Saturday night's in rummy. You knew pretty darn well that the rustlers would get the noose, anyway, and sometimes you just reached for your hat.

Today the chase has a personal, real, emotional wallop. When the Nazi agent hounded Michele Morgan in "Joan of Paris," he was a personal enemy, yours and mine, a powerful enemy and a threat to all decent people.

When the tables are turned, as in "The Invaders," and its Nazis being chased around Canada, the audience gets in there and pulls for the capture. Capturing the evil varmints becomes, while you watch, vital and important. Eluding them, as Errol Flynn & Co. do in "Desperate Journey," is just as vital. It's our side against their side, and our side had better win or else. The chase comes back into its own.

Which brings us to Silver Lining No. 2. The villain.

Scenarists used to sweat blood over the nationality of their villains. If they made them Japanese, the studio foreign department screamed because the picture would be banned in Nippon. Spanish, Italian, French, Portuguese — the same screams. Villains had to be definitely of the U. S. A., or indefinitely of foreign extraction, usually Russian because the U. S. S. R. didn't play American pictures.

Today Russians are heroes and so are Americans. So are Chinese and Dutch and Latin Americans and all other United Nations people. But that still leaves quite a few million potential movie villains, any of them desirable as such because they represent real threats to all of us and the facts enhance their menace.

The Nazis are the heavies in countless movies—currently "The Edge of Darkness," "The Moon Is Down," "Watch on the Rhine," "Seventh Column," "The Commandos Come at Dawn," etc.

Another thing—and this saves a lot of precious film—they don't need to establish a character as a villain any more. He doesn't have to kick a dog or hiss at a baby to give himself away.

DENY PRIVILEGE OF PASSING ON HIGHER WAR TAX

Federal Commissioners Ban Boost in Utility Rates To Cover Cost Rise.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Public utility companies today were denied the privilege of passing on to consumers, in the form of higher rates, increases in operating expenses brought about by higher wartime taxation.

The federal power commission made the ruling in a decision ordering the Panhandle and Eastern Pipeline company, and an affiliate, to cut by $5,094,345 charges for natural gas sales to more than 700,000 retail customers in Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The FPC declared that the purpose of the price control act of 1942 would be thwarted if utilities were permitted to pass war taxes on to the public, and added:

"So that there may be no confusion concerning the tax situation in connection with companies subject to our jurisdiction, where necessary to stabilize utility rates at reasonable levels during the war emergency period, we propose to allow as proper operating expenses only such taxes as may be termed ordinary and normal.

"For the purpose of distinguishing between ordinary or normal and war emergency or abnormal taxes, we conclude that the basis prescribed in the 1940 revenue act establishes the highest possible level of federal taxes which may be allowed as an element of operating expense for such purpose.

"No one can expect to maintain a status or condition of business unaffected by the holocaust now sweeping the world. Increased tax burdens must be borne by the utility which enjoys a monopolistic position in the economic field, as well as by others who have no such advantage."

The order directed the companies involved to file on or before Oct. 15 a reduced schedule of rates which shall be effective on all bills sent out on or after Nov. 1.

HOT DOG! THERE WON'T BE A SHORTAGE OF THOSE 'RED HOTS'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Hot dog! This may be one of the answers to the threatened meat shortage.

The lowly weenie — that bunbound hunk of succulent sausage smeared with mustard and hot sauce—loomed today in limitless links to lead the land through the lean days ahead.

According to Harry D. Oppenheimer, president of the Natural Casing Institute, the supply of these prize portions of piecemeal pork and beef that please kings and kids alike is plentiful—and then some.

Oppenheimer wired Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard and Price Administrator Leon Henderson from New York that there was no cause for concern. The hot dog, he said, had the situation in hand.

He asserted that the meat shortage was chiefly in steaks, roasts, chops, hams and shoulders, which are sought by the army, navy and lease-lend needs. Meeting their increasing meat demands has set an all-time butchering record, bringing a bumper crop of beef and pork trimmings.

These trimmings go into sausage to stuff the luscious links that baseball and circus fans love.

In addition, he said, the supply of casings to cover the hot dogs was sufficient to render such talk as rationing silly.

"Within two weeks when the new pork crop is on the market," he said, "the nation's butcher shops and food stores will have a plentiful supply of hot dog sausages to meet the heaviest of consumer demands and should that demand increase there are adequate facilities and raw materials including natural casings to assure a steady unbroken supply."

Well-I-I . . . since he puts it that way . . . pass the mustard.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Joyce Ellen; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Darling, near Lucas; her sister in Lucas, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Darling and Huston Sovine.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. from her parents' home by Rev. O. S. Goerner, Lucas, assisted by Rev. H. L. Gilbert, Mansfield. Burial will be in Mt. Zion cemetery.

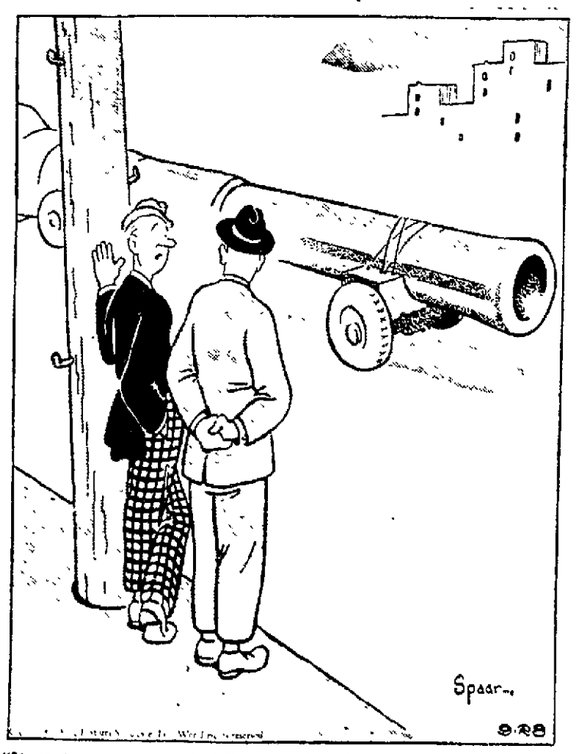
Employed Women's Group To Be Known As 'Vesper Club.'

A group of employed older women, meeting for Sunday evening supper once a month at the Y. W. C. A., chose the name of "Vesper club," at its meeting last night.

Plans were made to meet at 5 p. m. in the future so that the group might attend evening church services.

Miss Anna Mertz is president of the club and Miss Doolittle, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Mary Barnett and Miss Amanda Remy will be in charge of the October meeting.

Laff-a-Day



"It costs ten thousand dollars to fire that—and I've been fired for practically nothing!"

Hopes of erstwhile bingo game operators were dashed today as they asked Police Chief Thomas M. Bell when they would be permitted to re-open. "Never" was the laconic but nevertheless emphatic answer.

Since the games were closed by police Sept. 19 Chief Bell has received many letters, mostly of commendation, but some suggesting various means of permitting regulated operation. After a survey of these suggestions, Bell decided there weren't enough nights in any seven-day week to accommodate all the players and would-be operators.

A sacred cow of Egypt carved from marble and believed to be 100 years old is among the interesting pieces. The most valuable items are a pair of Staffordshire roosters 150 years old.

Mansfield Boy Scouts aren't forgetting sociability despite all their wartime efforts towards gathering scrap, distributing air raid instructions and training for emergency service. At least three troops have chili suppers scheduled and parents will be invited in each case. Plans are now being made by the First Methodist church and Bowman school troops and also the troop at Ontario. No dates have been set but the "spreads" will be held soon.

SENATE GROUP QUERIES TOP U. S. OFFICIALS

Draft, Manpower, and WPB Heads Called to Give Testimony.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—With one eye on the nation's youth and the other on its bread-basket, the house agriculture committee today sought the advice of three top-ranking officials to aid it in formulating legislative recommendations to avert what Chairman Fulmer (D., S. C.) described as "a rapidly approaching food shortage."

Called as final witnesses in the committee's long study of the food outlook were Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director; Paul V. McNutt, head of the war manpower commisison, and Donald M. Nelson, war production chief.

Hershey was scheduled to take the stand today after testifying before a senate sub-committee studying manpower. McNutt was slated as Tuesday's witness, and Nelson was expected to appear Wednesday.

From Hershey, who last week told the committee 28 per cent of draft registrants up to last June were from farm regions but only 13 per cent of men in the army were farmers, Fulmer said his group hoped to get an idea of the future manpower needs of the armed services and their effect on the farm labor supply.

McNutt, whom Fulmer accused of being "more interested in industry's needs regardless of the effect on food production," was expected to be asked about how many more men, if any, industry would take from the farms and whether the manpower commission had any plans for supplying workers to agricultural areas.

Nelson, Fulmer said, will be asked for the information on which he based a recent statement attributed to him by Representative Pace (G., Ga.) that there was no danger of a food shortage. The statement, which Pace termed "a critical error," was in direct conflict with the general views and beliefs of committee members, Fulmer declared.

"As soon as we hear these three men," Fulmer said, "the committee probably will submit to congress some definite recommendations to avert what is certain to be an acute food shortage unless something is done and done quickly."

Fulmer said he leaned toward drafting and assigning all manpower to jobs where the need was most acute. Such procedure, he added, would require "some sort of government subsidy" to bring into balance the pay of men assigned to farm work and those placed in more highly-paid industrial jobs.

Churchill Lauds U. S. Shipbuilders On Boat Records

LONDON—(INS)— Prime Minister Winston Churchill today was on record with a tribute to America's merchant marine and shipbuilders for their role in winning the war.

In a message read by John G. Winant, U. S. ambassador to Britain during a broadcast from London, Churchill called the American ship building program one of the United Nations' most remarkable examples "of courage, resourcefulness and industry."

Churchill said the completion of nearly 500 vessels within the last 12 months "is an achievement far beyond even the most optimistic hopes and expectations."

Addressed to the men who build American ships and sail them, the prime minister's statement continued:

"You know well and so do the Nazis what this added tonnage means to the armed forces of the United Nations."
